Die to live (Abbess Christonymfi, Monastery of Our Lady the Queen of All, Keratea)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

The monastic life is nothing other than one soul bringing respite to another, without thought for itself. This is also pleasing to God. In the monastery, a nun should efface herself. Her life should be her cross, she shouldn't consider herself at all. She should die so that she will live eternally.
