

And He saved us all from ruin...

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Standing by the coffin I gazed therein and beheld the corruption of the flesh. In the grave it had become repulsive – there was nothing to resemble an attractive face; instead dry, crumbling bones covered with corruption were to be seen. With sorrow and grief I withdrew from the coffin, carried by my thoughts to that time when we will be resurrected to the sound of the trumpet and will glorify Thee for the resurrection prepared for Adam's descendants and say: Praise to Thee, O Lord of all!
