We won't pay attention (Saint Luke the Doctor)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

When we see the sinfulness of others, we should look into our own heart and ask ourselves: 'Am I without sin? Isn't there the same passion inside me as I see in my brother or sister?'. If we follow the movements of our heart carefully, then we'll recognize our own sinfulness and unworthiness and we won't pay attention to what others are doing, nor will we condemn them for it.
