It passes imperceptibly (Archimandrite Ephraim, Abbot of the Vatopaidi Monastery)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

We need to be constantly thinking about this life, this mortal life which we all share, though we have different schedules, different concerns and different dreams. The time comes for all of these things to pass away. We're all witnesses to the fact that life, our life, flies by imperceptibly. And each of us will wonder about the years of our life, we'll see with the experience we've acquired and we'll grasp the whole situation: that human life flies past so quickly.
