It sweetens the way they look (Saint Paisios the Athonite)

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

The inner purity of the beautiful soul of the real person also enhances their external appearance, and that divine tenderness of God's love even sweetens their countenance. Apart from making people beautiful spiritually, and sanctifying them, the internal beauty of the soul also betrays them externally with divine Grace. It adorns and sanctifies even ugly clothing, provided it's worn by one of God's people.
